- “The Evan B. Donaldson Adoption Institute tells us that the number of infants available for private adoption in the United States has been decreasing. The factors which have contributed to this change are, “increased access to contraception”, “changed social attitudes about unmarried parenting”, and the big one, “the legalization of abortion.”
- “Between 1989 and 1995, 1.7 percent of children born to never-married white women were placed for adoption, compared to 19.3 percent before 1973.” In 1970 there were 89,200 new adoptive parents. In 1975, the last year for which such data is available, that number was cut almost in half to 47,700. The reason for the decline was due to the fact that “fewer U.S.-born white infants were available for adoption.”
- “Babies which would have been _____ prior to 1973 were being _____ after 1973.”
